Framing

Unsurprisingly, the majority of the articles under analysis emanated from a political frame (21). Of those political articles, 16 were primarily concerned with the Russia Ukraine conflict and five on the Indo-Pacific Strategy (and Forum that Mahuta attended). The Indo-Pacific Forum was mainly covered in the lead-up to the meeting, with only one article mentioning it after the fact, and then only in passing (stating that Mahuta attended).

The results of this news coverage are arguably both a positive and negative finding for scholars who DUH LQWHUHVWHG LQ WKH (8¶V YLVL Etts. @ffbrts/ at pout/licDiplorbace).WTHheUQDWLIH HYHQW LWVHOIZDV REYLRXVO\D FRXS IRU WKH (8/¶s) w/s f60/w/ likeDWHJ\ minded leaders in the Asia-Pacific region. Thus, EU coverage would have gained more visibility in a number of countries from the attending leaders.

As demonstrated above, the results of the analysis discussed above demonstrated some positive UHVXOWV IRU WKH YLVLELOLW\ RI WKH (XURSHDQ 8QLRQ LQ WKH visit to Europe. The lead-up to the trip showed an increase in news items which included both Mahuta and the EU. It also resulted in garnering the attention of local journalists who were interested in the trip and, presumably, the outcome of the trip.
