Semester 1 2018.

Where you have come from and what do you teach?

I am a professor at the Ivey Business School, University of Western Ontario in Canada, where I teach business strategy and sustainability courses to undergraduates, graduates and executives. One of the favorite courses I teach, 'Corporations and Society', tackles fundamental issues about the evolving role that businesses play in modern society. I am also the Director of the Ivey Energy Policy and Management Centre, and much of my research focuses on the energy sector, which is a significant suofaam
